Dear Friends

In this March issue we mourn the sudden loss of beloved musician and musicologist Tefera Assefa who died suddenly last month after receiving medical treatment. He leaves an incredible legacy and will be greatly missed by many.

A highlight this month is the amazing furniture of Ethiopian American furniture designer Jomo Tariku who is inspired by African designs which he integrates into his widely popular and exquisite collector item pieces. Notable customers include former American Vice President Kamala Harris.

We celebrate the achievements of rising Ethiopian American football star Naomi Girma who has just been signed by the prestigious Chelsea football club! A new book on Ethiopian women's history is a pioneering project that provides a scholarly and academic overview of Ethiopian women's history. Plus lots more...

Have a good month.

MOURNING THE LOSS OF TEFERI ASSEFA; MUSICIAN AND MUSICOLOGIST

News about Teferi Assefa's sudden death was met with tremendous shock and sadness. Social media is flooded with personal recollections of what Teferi meant to people; how he shared his wealth of knowledge generously and was an inspiration.

Teferi attended a prestigious music college in Poland where he obtained his Master's Degree in jazz drumming (Minor in percussion). Teferi displayed both talent and passion; he began performing in live jazz concerts across Europe before relocating to America where his musical career continued to flourish.

Teferi was particularly interested in educating global audiences about Ethiopian music. Award winning Lasta Sound artistically fused classic Ethiopian songs into world-music rhythms (turned into a movie). Wudasse was the first live recorded Ethio jazz group, fusing traditional Ethiopian songs and rhythms with conventional jazz (featured in the movie Lambadina).

Bands he set up with friends included Eshi Havanah, Urban Vibes and Kayne Lab and he was instrumental in advocating for the Jazz department at the Yared Music School. His illustrious musical career included performing with renowned musicians including Mulatu Astatke, Tilahun Gessese, Aster Aweke, Mohammud Ahmed and others.

As a musicologist, Teferi implemented a first of its kind study of Ethiopian rhythms; it was his life time mission to research, collect and learn indigenous and authentic tribal rhythms which became part of founding his popular Negarit Band.

Teferi leaves us with an amazing legacy of the musical heritage of Ethiopia to inspire future generations. He created a unique and blended Ethio fusion jazz reflecting his own international musical journey, tragically ending much too soon... And for those of us lucky enough to have known him personally, the warmth of his friendship, his humility and the knowledge of his abiding love for his family will never be forgotten.

What's Out extends our deepest condolences to Teferi's family.

Recently, Jomo received a letter from former V.P. Kamala Harris that she had proudly displayed two of his chairs (the Nyala and MeQuamy) inside her official residence at the Naval Observatory.

Jomo's Meedo chair was included in the Metropolitan Museum of Art's Afrofuturist Period Room and five of his designs were part of the set of Marvel's 2022 film Black Panther: Wakanda Forever.

The MoMA Design Store carries the Ashanti Stool as a modern take on the Akan chief ceremonial seats used in 19th- and 20th-century Ghana. The stool has also been added to MOMA's permanent collection.

Jomo Tariku is defining a new design language of modern African-themed furniture. Synthesizing his experience and love for Africa's diverse cultures, historical structures, architecture, traditional furniture, colors, artifacts, landscapes, wildlife and hair styles, Jomo seeks to engage his audience in a design conversation transcending time.

JOMO TARIKU: ACCLAIMED FURNITURE DESIGNER

Ethiopian-American furniture designer, Jomo Tariku grew up in Kenya; he sketched pictures of unique furniture that his diplomat father brought home from his trips around Africa. What nurtured a love of these objects led him to become a furniture maker. Whilst attending university in the USA, he discovered that international design magazines focused mainly on European styles and influences.

This realization was shocking to Jomo leading him to cultivate a furniture line inspired by the geometric forms found in Aksum for his design thesis and to focus on African inspired and themed designs. In 2018, New York-based designer Malene Barnett invited him to become a founding member of the Black Artists and Designers Guild (BADG), created to connect Black creatives and enable wider visibility. This helped highlight his furniture to a wider audience.

TRADITIONAL CASCARA BREWING: A UNIQUE COFFEE CHERRY BEVERAGE

Source:

Cascara, meaning "husk" in Spanish, is the dried outer skin of coffee cherries. While coffee beans are the most valued part of the fruit, cascara has been traditionally used to brew a flavorful and nutritious tea-like beverage. This drink is popular in coffee-growing regions and offers a naturally sweet, fruity taste with hints of spice.

Here's how you can prepare a traditional cascara drink using simple ingredients.

Ingredients

- Dried cascara (coffee cherry husks)
- Water
- Salt (to taste)
- Fresh ginger (1-2 small pieces)
- Garlic (optional, for added depth)

Equipment

- Stove
- Pan (for roasting)
- Grinder (for coarse grinding)
- Pot (for boiling)
- Knife and chopping board
- Stirring spoon

Brewing Method

1. Prepare the Cascara – Clean the dried husks, removing any debris or twigs.

2. Roast for Aroma – Heat a pan over medium heat and lightly roast the cascara until it releases a fragrant aroma. Be careful not to burn it.

3. Grind the Cascara – Allow it to cool slightly, then coarsely grind it using a grinder.

4. Boil Water – In a pot, bring water to a boil.

5. Steep the Cascara – Add the ground cascara to the boiling water and let it simmer for a few minutes based on your preferred strength. The longer it simmers, the more bitter the taste.

6. Add Spices – Chop the ginger and garlic, then add them to the pot along with a pinch of salt.

7. Simmer & Serve – Let the mixture simmer for about three minutes before straining and serving warm.

This traditional cascara brew pairs well with roasted corn or sweet potatoes, making it a comforting and flavorful drink that connects you to Ethiopia's rich coffee culture.

NAOMI GIRMA: FROM COLLEGE FOOTBALL TO CHELSEA'S RECORD- BREAKING DEFENDER

Naomi Girma has made history as the most expensive female footballer in the world. The 24-year-old defender's £900,000 transfer from San Diego Wave to Chelsea has broken the previous transfer record, marking a major milestone in women's football.

Naomi, born and raised in San Jose, California, is the first player of Ethiopian descent to represent the US women's national team. Her parents, Girma Aweke and Seble Demissie, emigrated to the United States in their twenties. "Ethiopian heritage—the food, the language, the community—has always been a big part of me," she shared with BBC Sport. "It's important for me to be clear about where I'm from and to inspire other first-generation kids ..."

Naomi's love for football began with her father, who founded a grassroots football club, Maleda Soccer, in San Jose. From there, Naomi's journey took her to Central Valley Crossfire, the Olympic Development Program, and Stanford University, where her stellar performances propelled her into the professional ranks.

Naomi's rise in football has been rapid. After an outstanding stint with Stanford, she was selected as the first pick in the 2022 NWSL draft by San Diego Wave. Her debut year was marked by accolades, including being named rookie of the year and NWSL defender of the year for both 2022 and 2023. In 2023, she was also named the USA's female player of the year and was nominated for the FIFA Best Women's Player of the Year and the BBC Women's Footballer of the Year in 2024.

Her international career has been just as impressive, with Naomi playing every minute of the 2024 Olympics as the United States claimed gold in Paris.

Naomi's move to Chelsea is the next step in what is shaping up to be one of the brightest careers in women's football.

Piece of Advice

A PIECE OF ADVICE

"The most amazing person in life is you."

150 years ago, there lived a strong woman called Yequaque Wordwot, who defied all rules underestimating women. She was a warrior, a progressive born before her time. She didn't break or bend for her father, brothers or husbands. She broke all unfair, discriminatory cultural and traditional roles; divorcing her first husband because he wanted to marry a second one. She wouldn't have it. She simply said no. It's either me only or divorce. During a time, when women didn't even think of entertaining divorce, she firmly challenged the traditional marriage system. She even negotiated her financial security. Never settling for less, she divorced and married a handsome "Jegena" (hero) of her own choice.

Sunny Sunday

It's a Sunny Sunday. Enjoy it to the fullest. Rest, pamper yourself, you deserve all the best things in life. Take a few hours just for yourself, go for a massage or swim, to the movies or even hiking or sit daydreaming in your house. It's fine to day-dream, don't feel guilty about it. Drive outside the city or take the bus to a nearby city. You are a magnificent woman, sunny as the day, you deserve to have a few hours for yourself to embrace your inner self. You have all the time in the world, don't pressure yourself with the hours. Time will not go anywhere; it is always there for you. Stop and enjoy each moment. See the beauty in yourself, around you, the beauty that life has given us. Look around, you can see flowers everywhere, even the noise of the traffic can be amusing and you can change it into rhythm, you can see funny people walking. Go out on a date with the VIP, the most important person: YOU ARE SUNSHINE!

LOVEGRASS ETHIOPIA PRODUCING TEFF PRODUCTS

Yonas Alemu, founder of Lovegrass Ethiopia, has successfully introduced teff-based products to international markets, including teff pasta in Italy.

Yonas was born and raised in a farming community in Ethiopia, where some of his earliest memories involve waking up before dawn to help in the teff fields. In his area, schooling was only available up to grade eight, after which many children returned to household chores and farming. However, Yonas's parents were adamant that all their children receive a proper education. To continue his studies, Yonas had to walk 12 kilometers each day to a nearby town. Yonas then completed his high school education in Addis.

Yonas earned scholarships to study first in Bulgaria followed by the UK where he established his 17-year career in investment banking before leaving his career in London to establish a health food company in Ethiopia. Despite initial skepticism from friends, he persevered, setting up a factory on the outskirts of Addis.

Lovegrass Ethiopia faced several challenges, including political unrest and the COVID-19 pandemic, which delayed production. However, the company has since secured deals with major international retailers. "The day we first exported pasta to Italy was probably one of my happiest," Yonas reflected. The company now focuses on both international and domestic markets, with sales split almost evenly.

Teff, the tiny grass seed native to Ethiopia, ranks among the world's most ancient cultivated crops, having been domesticated between 6,000 and 4,000 BC. For thousands of years, Ethiopians have used teff flour to make the diet staple of 'injera'.

Celebrated as a superfood, teff is gluten-free and rich in nutrients including iron, magnesium, manganese, calcium, zinc, and vitamins B and C. Ethiopian runner Haile Gebrselassie has even credited teff as a factor in his athletic success.

WALJAALLADHAA FOUNDATION: UPLIFTING THE REMOTE DOGANO COMMUNITY

The Waljaalladhaa Foundation is dedicated to improving the lives of the Dogano Community by focusing on education and providing access to basic necessities. Established in 2015 by the children of Tadesse Lemu after his passing, the foundation honors his wish for his family to "love one another," which inspired its name, Waljaalladhaa, meaning "Love one another" in Oromiffa.

Tadesse Lemu's devotion to the Dogano Community began years before the foundation's creation. During his lifetime, he helped finance and build a community church, Yedogano Bille Bethel Mekane Yesus, serving the spiritual needs of Dogano's residents. He later helped construct a pre-school for local children. After his passing, his children carried forward his vision by completing the school's expansion, adding classrooms, a playground, and ensuring the continued support of school staff salaries.

Waljaalladhaa Foundation was founded to sustain these community projects and address future needs. With the assistance of donors and volunteers, the foundation continues to strengthen the Dogano Community, ensuring that vital resources and services reach those who need them most.

In 2022, the Foundation completed its most ambitious initiative to date: the Water Project. This effort significantly expanded access to clean water in the Dogano Community, positively impacting the health and well-being of the community.

Through all its work, Waljaalladhaa remains steadfast in its mission to uplift the Dogano Community. Check the website below if you'd like to help secure a brighter future for this community and ensure that Mr. Lemu's legacy of compassion and love lives on.

EMBRACING THE RAW ESSENCE OF DESIGN

"A product is glorified and embraced by the individual elements that make it whole."

Design, at its core, is an expression of intent—a reflection of the designer's thoughts and choices. True creativity does not always lie in polished perfection but in the raw honesty of materials and construction. The decision to leave certain imperfections exposed is not a sign of negligence or haste; rather, it is a deliberate way of celebrating the essence of the material itself, allowing it to speak without being masked by layers of refinement.

When a product is put to the test and presented to an audience, what impression does it leave? Does it introduce an entirely new way of thinking, or does it provide a transparent glimpse into its making—even if that means revealing the small, imperfect details in its connections and finishes?

There are many ways to showcase the journey of a design, emphasizing the very elements that compose it. A raw concrete wall left unplastered, or a wooden surface without polish.

Choosing to expose the inner workings of a design does not imply a lack of precision or attention to detail. Instead, it highlights the creator's conscious decision to bring the materials and connections to the forefront, celebrating their inherent beauty. So why not embrace the unrefined charm of magnificent designs and appreciate the art of the unfinished?

This volume on Ethiopian women's history is a pioneering project in Ethiopian educational documentation, bringing together the research that has been developed on Ethiopian women's history up to the 2010s.

It examines a wide range of topics related to women's issues using critical, methodological and chronological approaches. Nineteen researchers worked on the project in all its political, religious and social dimensions, exploring women's issues related to religion, work, education, political and economic participation, health, sports, etc. Each theme has its own dedicated section, made up of successive chapters that either attempt to cover the period from antiquity to the present day, or analyze sub-themes from different perspectives.

The volume brings together historians and social scientists from Ethiopia and abroad who share a common interest in developing the field of women's history and gender in Ethiopia. They have worked together to address different methodological issues and topics in a single volume, with the aim of it being used as reference material in an academic context.

This is the first attempt of its kind to provide a scholarly and academic overview of Ethiopian women's history. It presents the various studies that have been carried out in this field of knowledge, with chapters that synthesize previous research, present the state of the art of thematic studies, or propose original research in still unexplored areas of study.

Historian Dr. Margaux Herman initiated, coordinated and edited the volume. Dr Herman began her career in Paris at La Sorbonne University and then as Assistant Professor at Debre Berhan University. She brought together Ethiopian and international scholars to produce a unique volume aimed at supporting the development of education and quality teaching at university level.
